MAKE YOUR OWN WILD ART

Look at nature a little differently by finding things that have different textures and colours to give a variety of elements to your Wild Art. The only limit is your imagination! What will you use, and how?

There's so much to choose from in the natural world, just make sure you're not making your art from another creature's home.

Inspired by the National Trust's '50 things to do before you're 11 ¾' No. 18 Create some Wild Art activity, we've created this fun download to give you inspiration for your creations!

Here's some ideas of what you can use to create your Wild Art!

You could even do a beach clean with an adult's supervision, collecting pieces of plastic that would otherwise find their way into the sea, and use these to create a colourful work of art before recycling the pieces.

Make sure you're wearing protective gloves and make sure you wash your hands after your beach clean!
